Road in Khandala

The consistent challenges of Food security and mitigating malnutrition compel for enhanced crop production. Indian Agriculture has made good progress in production of various crops including vegetables and fruits that are also being exported. There has been tremendous enrichment of knowledge and technology in disease diagnostics, epidemiology and forecasting, host pathogen interaction, microbial diversity and biopesticides, IDM etc. Yet, plant diseases continue to be amongst the major constraints to crop health and food quality afflicting the agricultural growth and trade. These reinforce the need of innovative approaches in plant disease research, dissemination of knowledge and exchange of ideas and information among the researchers for their future quest in disease management.

The Indian Society of Mycology and Plant Pathology (ISMPP) is a premier Society devoted to disseminate the scientific advancements in plant disease research through its official organ Journal of Mycology and Plant Pathology, Review of Plant Pathology and ISMPP News. The society annually organizes the conferences and symposia for facilitating interaction amongst researchers and faster exchange and dissemination of the advances in plant disease research. It is with the same objective that the 35th Annual Conference and symposium on “Innovative and Ecofriendly Approaches for Plant Disease Management” is being organized during January 8-10, 2014 at Dr Panjabrao Deshmukh Krishi Vidyapeeth, Akola, Maharashtra.

This year is also the Birth Centenary year of Professor N Prasad, the Founder member of ISMPP, and the symposium will be an appropriate forum to pay homage to this leading personality who was instrumental in establishing the ISMPP and nurturing it in its initial stage.
